facing the railroads. The commission is requested to "grant the petitioners special permission to make effective such increases—by the publication of special supplements on less than the statutory notice period of 30 days."

There is little possibility that the latter step will be taken. In fact, it is doubtful if rate increases be put into effect in less than four months, according to members of I C C. The fastest time on record for establishing a rate increase was in 1920 when it was done in 75 days and in that instance there was no appreciable opposition to the rise and therefore no need for extended hearings Major groups, particularly the farmers; are today strongly opposed to any increase in freight rates.

Effect of Increase Problematical. How much of an increase the I C. C. might grant is also problematical. To grant the full 15 per cent requested would be almost without precedent. And then, grant-ed an increase, what actual improvement in operating revenue might follow is also questionable, as any increase is certain to result in diversion of freight to highways and waterways.

Speaking before a business group

Colored carlier in the month in Chicago earlier in the mo Jesse Jones let drop several hints of the seriousness of the railroad situation. modification of the undistributed profits tax was imperative.

Harrison, in a telegram from Gulfport, Miss., to Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau indicated that he believed changes would bolster business confidence.

Congratulating Morgenthau on his speech of Wednesday night on business and financial conditions,

The average corporation which retains 30 per cent of profits, he said, pays a normal and undistributed profits tax of 10.6 to 19.5 per cent on net incomes ranging from $2000 to $10,000,000.

Three additional proposals for tax revision were before the sub-committee. These were:

Repeal of the capital stock and excess profits tax at a $140,000,000 net loss in revenue, to be obtained from another source.

Morgenthau suggested that 1939 expenditures could be brought into line with revenue by a $700,000,000 cut in appropriations for roads, public works, relief and agriculture. Officials of the Bureau of Roads said definite commitments would prevent as large a cut in road exprevent as large a cut in road expenditures as Morgenthau proposed, unless Congress took action at the special session. The Treasury Secretary had suggested there might be a return to the pre-depression in the control of the contro figure of $100,000,000 a year in road spending. He estimated this year's figure would be $253,000,000.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18. — Exclaiming vigorously that he is as yet "not half way through" the job of cleaning up what has become known as "administration mess No. 1." Chairman Frank R. McNinch of the Federal Communications Commission announced at a press conference yesterday afternoon that the second step of his program would consist in turning this establishment into a "glass house." He added that "no public body has a right to live in any other way."

One method of converting the F C C into a mansion with transparent walls, continued the chairman, will work out as follows: If a Senator, Congressman, member of a national committee, Governor, Mayor or politician of whatever station, as well as any other being, should attempt to influence the decision of the commission by means of telephone, telegraph, post or word of mouth, than the offending person's name will be made public, together with the sist of claiming vigorously that he is as

This has been has been closed but before action by the commission. This has been he basis for a part of the criticism as to political or outside influence imed at the commission."

American Legion's Armistice old man stood in the crowded room with his one-time enemies about him and beat out the battle songs of both armies.

After a moment of silent tribute to the war, being and was sentenced to five days in the Workhouse and fined $50. Reminded that this paragraph ight be regarded as an indictment the commission's practices in a past, the chairman revited.

An order made public yesterday reaffirmed that the three appointees will lose their jobs next Monday, and provided for the taking over of their pending business by the commission as a whole.

Asked whether there had been any reaction on this matter from Farley, Rayburn or Justice Black, McNinch declared that he had not heard of any. He related that President Roosevelt summoned him to Hyde Park about two months chairmanship of the Federal Power Commission to undertake the job of cleaning up the F C C.

"We did not discuss details," said McNinch, "but only broad policies. The President gave me a free hand. Since then there has been no official communication between us. He has never heard of our new 'glass house' program.'

FORCED TO ENGAGE ANOTHER ATTORNEY

Witness Tells of Moves to Make Railroad Pay Costs of Terminal Shares Suit Against Itself.

Post-Dispatch Bureau, 201-205 Kellogg Building. WASHINGTON, Nov. 12. — Guy A. Thompson, bankruptcy trustee of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, testified before the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee today that Thomas T. Railey, who still holds the title of assistant general solicitor to the trustee, worked hand-in-glove with John P. Murphy of Cleveland, general counsel of the Alleghany Corporation, during court proceedings in St. Louis tending to proceedings in St. Louis tending to fix the Terminal Shares transac-tion as binding contract on the Thompson continued that he was finally compelled to engage Russell Dearmont as his legal aid, so that finally compelled to engage Russell Dearmont as his legal aid, so that he might have counsel on whom he could rely. When the Missouri Pacific went into bankruptcy in 1933, said Thompson, the court appointed as counsel to the trustees the late Edward J. White, vice-president and general solicitor of the Missouri Pacific under both Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and Van Sweringen control. White, according to Thompson, appointed Railey as his Thompson, appointed Railey as his

Boyd, a Cleveland attorney in Van Sweringen employ, were introduced in evidence. They showed that throughout hearings in the Terminal Shares case before United States District Judge Faris and a special master appointed by him, Railey was engaged in submitting legal memoranda and advice to counsel for the Alleghany Corporacounsel for the Alleghany Corpora-

Thompson said he did not know at the time of this correspondence, but that, when it came to his atten-tion later, he had a conference with White in which he informed White that Railey's connections with the Alleghany lawyers must end. He agreed that Railey's activities in this matter were highly objectionable, but declared his belief that they were motivated by loyalty to President Lewis W. Baldwin of the Missouri Pacific rather than to the Alleghany Corporation, Van Sweringen holding trust.

"Baldwin had approved the Ter-minal contract," explained the trustee, "as he was convinced these properties in North Kansas City and St. Joseph, Mo., were of great potential value to the Missouri Pacific system. Attacks on the transaction were in some degree attacks on Baldwin's judgment. Railey had been associated with Baldwin for years, and felt toward him the utost personal devotion."

"Not Very Laudable Behavior." tor Truman of Missouri, acting chairman of the Senate Committee "I cannot feel that this was very dable behavior on the part of Mr. Railey."

"Railey was misled from a proper course of conduct," the trustee am-plified his testimony, "by his par-ticular love for Mr. Baldwin. Nevertheless, to co-operate under these circumstances with the Alleghany crowd was most reprehensible, and something I would never tolerate.
"I assure you that I shall go over the matter with Mr. Railey on my return to St. Louis. Unless I am completely convinced that there will be no repetition of these offenses, I shall be compelled to ask Mr. Railey to leave the Missouri

Pacific's legal staff." It was recalled for the record that the Alleghany Corporation or-ganized a subsidiary, the Geneva Corporation, for the express purpose of purchasing the Terminal Shares properties and of reselling them to the Missouri Pacific, another subsidiary, for $21,000,000. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation, as a large creditor of the Missouri Pacific, filed application before Judge Faris to have the con-tract set aside on the ground that the price exacted was grossly un-fair and exorbitant. Railey's position, Thompson admitted, was that of giving aid and comfort to the enemy in proceedings designed to relieve his employer, the Missouri Pacific, from a burdensome obligation.

Alleghany Pressure on Trustee. Testimony was adduced to the effect that in the early days of the railroad's bankruptcy, the Alleghany Corporation's lawyers sought to utilize the trustees as an adjunct to their office in Cleveland. Herbert Fitzpatrick, vicepresident of Alleghany, according to Thompson, "pressed me hard" in the matter of cash advances to the debtor company, and urged upon him the appointment of Ernest S. Ballard, a Van Sweringen attorney in Chicago, as counsel to the Missouri Pacific.

Moreover, continued Thompson, the Alleghany sought to induce the Missouri Pacific trustee to pay the fees of William H. Boyd, eventually reaching a total of $50,000 and several thousands of dollars in ex-

Officials Undecided on Whether to Take Over Rock Island Right-of-Way.

While University City has been busy preparing to condemn for highway purposes the western end of the Rock Island Railroad rightof-way between De'Baliviere avenue and Forsythe boulevard, the matter has lain dormant for months at the St. Louis City Hall, with officials undecided whether to take over the eastern end of the right-of-way as a relief route for crowded Lindell and Delmar boulevards.

Mayor Dickmann told Post-Dispatch reporter today he was "not prepared" to say at this time whether he would recommend the necessary ordinance authorizing condemnation proceedings. A little half mile stretch lies in St. Louis.

mainder in University City.
Through the efforts of University City officials, headed by the then Mayor, David L. Millar, arrangements were made with the railroad for $10,000, of which St. Louis was to pay its proportionate share, about $4400. The University City Board of Aldermen then passed ordinances authorizing the expenditure and the filing of condemnation proceedings. filing of condemnation proceedings. Titles were run down to make sure Counselor Wayman's Comment. St. Louis officials, in conference at that time with University City and railorad officials, looked on the plans with favor and indicated the city would pay its share of the $10,000. The proposal was submitted to the office of City Counselor Edgar H. Wayman-and there it has remained ever since.

Wayman said today he had found that the Rock Island did not actual-ly own most of the St. Louis part of the right-of-way, but instead held nly easements. If the city bought he railroad's rights to the stretch, he explained, it might then face a multiciplicity of suits by original owners, or owners of abutting prop-erty, with claims of priority. The only way of getting clear title would be by condemnation, Wayman said. he by condemnation, Wayman said.

Asked why the city had not taken Asked why the city had not taken steps toward condemnation, as done by University City, Wayman re-plied that that was "a matter for the Board of Aldermen and the Board of Estimate and Apportion-The reporter then sought out the Mayor.

As expressed by a University City esident familiar with the situation, the highway proposal is "no-body's baby" at the St. Louis City Hall and, lacking energetic spon-sorship, has gone begging. This, despite the fact that 10 years ago, when negotiations for the site were when negotiators not the webselings, St. Louis made a tentative offer to pay the railroad $90,000 for the right-of-way, it was pointed University City's Plans. Millar, who has continued active in furthering the proposal since leaving office last April, said it was planned to lay a more or less temporary black top pavement on the old roadbed even before the condemnation proceedings are com-pleted. The railroad has agreed to remove its rails and the ballast remaining will provide a suitable foundation for the highway, Millar said. Later, a 40-foot paved road-

Most of the existing right-of-way is 45 feet wide, and, as the city desires 10-foot shoulders on either side of the pavement, it is planned ment. Millar said Washington University and the Public Service Co., both owning much of the property adjoining, have indicated they would co-operate fully.

In order to obtain an outlet for the new highway eastward into Skinker road, 300 feet east of the city limits, University City plans to acquire the railroad property at this point outright, and build the neces-

Wednesday the Interstate Commerce Commission authorized the Rock Island to abandon 6.6 miles of its tracks from De Baliviere to Lackland Junction, in St. Louis County. Government Expects to Conclude Strikebreaking Case in Fourth Day.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 12 .-The trial of James H. Rand Jr., of violating the Federal Byrnes law against strikebreaking was resumed today after an Armistice day recess.

Charles H. Carr, special assistant to the Attorney-General, expected to conclude the Government's case in its fourth day by calling six strikers at the Rand plant in Middletown to which the defendants are accused of transporting 57 men from New York for the purpose of interfering with peaceful picketing during the 1936 strike.

Judge Carroll C. Hincks ruled Wednesday that witnesses' testimony might be used to prove the existence of a "labor controversy" existence of a "labor controversy" at the Rand plant in the absence

James C. Casey, a striker, told the jury Wednesday that on the day Bergoff's men arrived in Middletown, a man told a group of pickets they were "crazy" to strike because "Jimmy Rand is a rich man; he'll starve you."

Bergoff's son, Earl, testified dur-ing the week that his father's business was "strikebreaking and pre-

LABOR ROW OVER REMOVING TREES NEAR ALTON DAM ENDS

Contractor Agrees to Pay Request and to Take Force From St. Charles County. Settlement of labor difficulties of James J. O'Brien, holder of a $55,- 554 contract for removing trees from part of the site of the lake to be formed above the Alton dam, was announced today by Wilbert Scheffer, business agent of a St. Charles County local of the Hod Carriers', Builders' and Common Laborers' Union.

Scheffer said to a Post-Dispatch reported that O'Brien had agreed to pay 67½ cents an hour for tree fellers and draggers and 60 cents, an hour for truck drivers, at a conference near the St. Charles County end of the dam. O'Brien also promised to dismiss all prospective workmen brought to the job from Southeast Missouri, except a few experienced men, and to take nearly all of his crew of 250 from the county, Scheffer declared. Work was begun yesterday with an initial force of about 50, he added.

Otto F. Karbe, attorney for O'Brien, said to a reporter that O'Brien had told him yesterday his labor troubles were settled. Federal officials had received a complaint from O'Brien last month that some of his employes were run away from their work by union members.
The union had complained that O'Brien intended to use imported labor paid less than the Governnum of 50 cents an hour

BRITISH GOVERNMENT BACK IN U. S. SEEKS TO RUN MINES

MAROUESA MARGARET

STRONG de CUEVAS.

Mrs. Cecilia Dunbar Dies.

By the Associated Press.

Bill for Operation of Coal Properties to Be Submitted to Parliament.

By the Associated Press LONDON, Nov. 12 .- The Government proposed today that the British coal mining industry be oper ated by the state.

Private operators would be bought out at a cost of $332,250,000, under the terms of a Government bill published today and to be sub-mitted to Parliament.

A new Coal Commission would be established to supplant the present Coal Mines Reorganization Commission, and any new coal discoveries automatically would come un-der commission jurisdiction.

The work of assessing mines and reimbursing present owners would take until July 1, 1942, whereupon the Government would assume full title. There are 4300 private coal mine owners now.

SHARES NOBEL PRIZE

Clinton J. Davisson Honored

for Discovering Wave

Motion of Electrons.

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 12. - Roger

Scientists in the United States

Martin du Gard, French author of Du Gard was born 56 years ago in a Paris suburb and started serious writing at the age of 28. He recently received a 25,000 franc (about $833) award from the city of Paris in recognition of his writings.

Du Gard began his writings with archeological studies in France. In 1922 he wrote the first of the "Les psychological evolution of France through the lives of members of a French family.

Davisson and Thomson were honored for experiments in which they discovered an interference phenomenon producted by irridat-ing crystals with electrons. Davisson, 50 years old, is a mem ber of the technical staff of the Bell Telephone laboratories in New York. He won the Comstock prize of the National Academy of Science in 1928.

Thomson is a professor of physics at the Imperial College of science in London. Haworth is director of the Department of Chemistry at the University of Birmingham. Karrer is professor of chemistry at the Uni-ersity of Zurich. Davisson Proved That Electrons Travel in Wave Motion. le Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12. - Clinton J. Davisson demonstrated that elec-trons, projected on a nickel reflector, travel in a wave motion.

This theory was advanced in 1924
by Prince Louis Victor de Brogile of France. In 1929, he received the Nobel prize for the theory.

The experiments of Davisson and his collaborator, Dr. L. H. Germer, showed that the stream of electrons, on hitting the nickel reflec-tor, "bounced" at constantly changing angles, proving the wave mo-

Before the theory was advanced, scientists thought electrons streaming upon a reflector would be diverted always at the same angle.

FIRST CONCERT PRESENTED IN CHAMBER MUSIC SERIES

Beethoven and Brahms Program by Max Steindel Ensemble and Guest Artists.

The first concert in the chamber music series promoted by the St. Louis Ethical Society was given last night in the Sheldor Auditorium. The Max Steindel ensemble assisted by a number of guest artists performed a program nsisting of the Beethoven Trio for violin, cello and piano, the Brahms Liebeslieder Waltzes for small chorus and the Brahms String Sextet. The performance was well received by a large crowd.

The artists participating in the trio were Corinne Frederick, pianist; Max Steindel, cellist, and Josef Faerber, violinist, and the performance was a strong and intelligent one. The Liebeslieder Waltzes were well prepared and well directed by William B. Heyne but the 16 sing-ers who comprised the mixed chorus did not have the vocal capacity, the control, nor the dynamic scope that was needed to realize his intentions. The performance lacked integration and modeling. The Brahms sextet was done sufficiently well to enable one to realize its rather circumscribed emotional beauty but not well enough to be exciting. Perhaps excitement is not a possibility for a score that is so dominated by the color of the cello and the viola.

35TH DIVISION PICKS OFFICERS

Kansas City Man New President; 1938 Meeting in St. Louis. By the Associated Press.

LAWRENCE, Kan., Noy. 12 .-Sergt. M. C. Sullivan of Kansas City, Mo., was elected president of the Thirty-fifth Division, the wartime division of Missouri and Kansas troops, at the group's reunion here yesterday, and St. Louis was chosen as the meeting place for Nov. 11 and 12, 1938.

Other officers elected were Col. Charles H. Browne, Horton, Kan., first vice-president; Senator Harry S. Truman, Independence, Mo., second vice-president; Capt. Mahlon Weed, Kansas City, Kan., third vice-president, and Col. Edward Mcon, St. Louis, fourth vice-president. The group voted to invite Gen. John J. Pershing and the Duke of Windsor, who reviewed the division in France in 1919, to attend next year's meeting.

The small Federal courtroom and precautions to prevent disturbances have almost made a private hearing out of one of the largest cases ever to come up for trial in the Southern Illinois district. U. S. Marshal Paul Ruppel will have an increased force of about 15 deputies and bailiffs on hand for duty in and around the third floor trial room. When seats are filled, the door will be closed and the corridors outside cleared.

Part of the space usually occu-pied by spectators has been set aside for seating the 41 defendants charged with conspiracy to violate the Sherman anti-trust and obstruction of the mails acts.

With one bench reserved for visiting attorneys and another for the press, but 90 seats will be available for onlookers. However, on the opening day only 10 seats will be open to the public, the other 80 to occupied by those in the venire for jury service.

Ruppel will assign five bailiffs to take charge of the 12 jurors and two alternates. All doors and corridors entering the courtroom are to be either locked or well-guarded. diverted always at the same angle.

Man Killed by Shock from Fence. YAKIMA, Wash., Nov. 12.—A pasture fence charged with electricity caused the death of Maurice Harmon-16 years old, near here yesterday. Harmon and two companions were returning from a hunting trip when he fell against the fence. A police report said Harmon's feet and clothes were we and it was muddy where he fell. Single-wire fences carrying a light charge of electricity are used by farmers of this district to keep stock in pastures.

A lag in such construction has been menof which he is chairman was pre-pared to report favorably on the bill, and predicted it would be taken to the House floor if the vate capital to go into the housing and heavy building field.

The President said his message to Congress would be sent to the Capitol on Monday, opening day of the special session. He said he had not finished writing ' and therefore could not say whether he would enlarge on the legislative program he already has outlined. This includes surplus crop control, wage and hour, Government reorganiza tion and regional planning legisla-

In the housing study, the President said two prime factors were being given attention-to get capital to go into the field and to gain the double objective of low interest and low building costs.

Another angle of the study he listed as a more or less guaranteed annual income for building trades mechanics.

He said the program, to be financed entirely by private capital, would supplement the Federal slum clearance and low-cost homes project and would involve primarily individual and small apartment house dwellings for the low income

Asked what was causing the slump in the construction indus-tries, the President enumerated: High real estate costs and the problem of getting transportation to town for persons who go out of population centers to obtain low acreage costs. Cost of materials and cost of labor in some sections.

The fact that there has been little done by private industry to organize for large scale building. He noted that it cost more per unit to build five houses than 100 houses, and added that large scale building also reduced the cost of materials. He said very high interest rates charged for called first, second and third money was another factor. These rates, he said, run on the average more than 8 per cent in the North and from 10 to 12 per cent in the South.

Bill Hudson, he of the blue and white baseball cap, and Frank Da-ley, additions to the roster and for-mer stars of the International League, showed in Thursday night's 2-to-1 victory over the St. Paul Saints that they can play the game. Each had a goal in the triumph which was not won until only 44 seconds of the second overtime period remained to be played and then only after nearly 70 minutes of hard hockey.

True, the team has not shown the scoring punch of last season and when you consider that St. Paul had in goal young Sam La Presti playing his first game of professional hockey, you will realize that with the drive of last season the Flyers would have won with much to spare.

But the next few weeks alone will tell just how efficient the Flyers.

To Defeat Creighton Team TO STOP PASSES In Missouri Valley Debut

By James M. Gould.

Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.

EN ROUTE TO OMAHA, Nov. 12 .- For the first time in many years, the St. Louis University Billikens, on their way to make their football debut in Missouri Valley conference competition in a game with the Creighton Bluejays tomorrow afternoon, will enter the contest decided favorites. It will be the ninth game of the series between the two schools—each team has won four—and the last for some time inasmuch as the Billikens failed to schedule the Bluejays

DUQUESNE FAILS AND TEXAS TECH TRIUMPHS, 13-0

LUBBOCK, Tex., Nov. 12. - Two brief air raids, topped off by a bit of magic at the goal line, carried Texas Tech's Red Raiders to a 13-0 triumph yesterday over a Duquesne Night Rider team that failed to nudge past the enemy 40-yard

Just twice did the Red Raiders interrupt a brilliant duel of kicks for any length of time, but both times they came up with touchdowns in less than two minutes.

Herschel "Red" Ramsey, Tech's contact and and a bulky substitute. great end, and a bulky substitute back, Gene Barnett, starred in the victory before a crowd of 12,000. Two minutes before the second period ended, the two, a great pitcher and a glue-fingered receiver, started their aerial antics. Back from his own 40-yard stripe Barnett started firing, contacting Ramsey twice with 11-yard darts and then finding him again for a 15-yard forward which he promptly lateraled to Ed Smith, who carried on to the Duquesne nine-yard line.

Gunners May Have Two Opponents Here on Sunday

James "Bud" Yates, manager of the St. Louis Gunners, professional football team, said last night that his contract with the Peoria professional team that claims it has a prior contract to play the Gunners here Sunday instead of the New York Yankees of the American League, has a clause in it that permits of cancellation of the game up to within five hours of departure of Donald "Dutch" Lohr, manager of 'eoria's team, said yesterday that he intends to bring his squad to St. Louis ready to play, although Yates had called him by telephone Mon-day and canceled the game. Lohr said he consulted a lawyer about the contract and he advised him that Yates would either have to play the game or forfeit the amount amed in the contract.

The Gunners team, regardless of whether they play Peoria of the Yankees, are training for a Sunday game. Tom Ribble, tackle who has played in the National League several years, has been added to the lineur The Yankees are due in town Saturday.

Saturday. I am glad and mighty proud that my old school won the battle, and I think Coach Muellerleile deserves great credit for the manner in which he handled his players. He made but few changes-17 men were used, whereas Missouri constantly made changes. That is, of course, the business of the coach—to do as he thinks.

"However, with 11 men tipping the beam around the 200 mark, it does appear as though giants of such great weight, drilled and trained for 10 weeks should be able to 'take it' for more than five minutes at a time. Everyone knows the result: Pittsburgh 21, Notre Dame 6.
"In playing 11 men there is such a thing as those regulars, more because of intuition than anything else, quickly divining just when the ball is about to be passed, when an opponent is ready to make his jump, either on defense or offence. . . . Men constantly in the game learn all the little things quickly—it's the lit-tle things that count, and they all add up to hard fought battles and cleverly won victories."

Day of Iron Men Passes.

THAT'S O K, Willis, as far as it goes. Eleven good men and true are better for being retained as a team, unless the enemy has 22 or 33 men equally as good and true. That happens frequently.
Washington University found out that iron men could be broken when not rested by replacements of equal value. Occasionally 11 men play 60 minutes today—not often. And it's not right they should be asked to, if they have become exhausted.

Most of the injuries in football are suffered in the first quarter, before the players have become properly warmed up, or in the final quarter when they are all worn out.

The solution to the substitute problem lies somewhere between the extremes of the old and new systems. In other words, good players should not be removed from a successful combination except to protect them against

NEW U. D. C. HEAD OF PERJURY CHARGE

Miller Carries Judge Joynt's Decision for Biedermann to Supreme Court.

An appeal to the Missouri Supreme Court was granted today by Circuit Judge John W. Joynt from his dismissal last Friday of a per jury indictment against Leo Biedermann, professional bondsman. At the request of Circuit Attorney Franklin Miller, Judge Joynt ordered Biedermann placed under Judge Joynt had held that the indictment, returned under guidance of the Circuit Attorney, failed to set forth facts constituting the offense charged. He had suggested that the Circuit Attorney initiate a contempt proceeding against Bieder mann. The indictment charged Biedermann committed perjury when, as a venireman in the case of another professional bondsman, Sam Goffstein, accused of receiving stolen property, he failed to re-spond when the prosecutor asked that any member of the panel acquainted with Goffstein or his attorney, Verne R. C. Lacy, raise his Biedermann knew both, it was alleged.

indictment, Judge Joynt ruled it was based on alleged concealment of a fact and not on an untruthful statement under oath, as he interpreted the requirement of the Missouri perjury statute. GENERAL PROPERTY TAX COLLECTIONS $5,090,364

Long Discount Period Cited as Reason Payments Are Behind Those in 1936.

Collection of general property taxes for 1937 reached $5,090,364 yesterday, as compared with $13,-111,463 at this time last year. The reason for slower payment this year, Collector William F. Baumann said, was the fact that the 1 per cent discount is obtainable until the end of this month and larger taxpayers customarily wait until the last few days the discount is in force before paying.

Last year, a discount of % of 1 per cent was allowable in October; 1/2 per cent in November and 1/2 per cent in December. This year, the law was amended so that a 1 per cent discount was granted for taxes paid in October and November. There is no discount in December.

Postal Attorney Says Proposed Ser-vice Would Conflict With Mail Laws.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Nov. 12. - Karl A. Crowley, solicitor of the Postoffice Department, recommended today that the United Airlines Transport Corporation and Western Air Express Corporation be denied permission to operate a through sleeper plane passenger and express service between New York and Los Angeles. Crowley submitted to Postmaster-General Farley a finding that the proposed service "is contrary to the provisions of the Air Mail Act of 1934 as amended." He said the contract submitted to the Postoffice Department "is, in effect, an agreement for the operation of service forbidden by law," because the proposed service would conflict with operations of other air mail cartaken care of them."

Convention Votes Unanimously to Retain Him as National Director.

Delegates attending the first naional convention of the CIO United Shoe Workers of America at Hotel DeSoto voted today to retain Powers Hapgood, young Socialist abor leader and Harvard gradnate, as national director of the

A resolution to that effect was adopted unanimously after the delegates, who represent more than 52,000 shoe workers, rose to their feet and cheered Hapgood loudly. In part, the resolution said:

"Be it resolved, that this committee recommend to the chairman of the C I O, John L. Lewis, that appoint a national director to United Shoe Workers of America, as adopted by this convention, and that Powers Hapgood shall be the one appointed."

The resolution proposed the naming of Adolph Germer of Detroit regional C I O director, as head of the shoe workers in the event of Hapgood's inability to serve. Referred to the convention's contitution committee, which has not draft a section providing that Hapgood should remain the actual leader of the seven-month-old union. Informed sources declared that

ILLEGAL CAB DRIVERS THICK IN ST. LOUIS

Increase of Police Detail Suggested as Curb by Service Board Officer.

Expansion of the police public vehicle detail, as has been done in other large cities, was urged as the best solution to the wildcat taxicab problem by Carter Burns, secretary of the Board of Public Service, in a discussion of the situation yesterday with a Post-Dispatch re-

On the basis of observations dur-ing a recent tour of six cities, where he studied taxicab regula-tions, Burns declared St. Louis had the most aggravated illegal cab problem among the cities he visited, and asserted the present two-man police detail could not control viola-tors.

police detail could not control votes.

Wildcat cabs, driven by Negroes without chauffeur's or taxicab licenses, and carrying no liability insurance, for months have been a problem for police and police judges in St. Louis. The work of the special police detail assigned to stop wildcatters July 26, and severe sentences for offenders, have reduced the number of illegal cabs, but city court records show there are still many of them.

Estimates from the policemen on taxicab detail indicate about 150 unlicensed cabs are operating, compared with only 125 licensed Negro cabs. The president of a large Negro taxicab company said wildcatters took away one-third of the taxicab business, on a yearly average.

average. The Usual Defense The difficulty in convicting of-fenders is a problem to Police Court prosecutors. The defense is usually based on the inability of arresting officers to show that fares were paid, atthough drivers' weekly accounts, for regular customers, are used as evidence.

Cars are stopped on complaints of individuals or drivers of licensed cabs, or evidence may be obtained by trailing suspected offenders several times over the same route. A typical trip after a suspected wild-cat cab, by policemen, showed that in an hour the car made three trips over one route, carrying 13 passen-gers. Such evidence has been suf-ficient to make a case on several occasions, the court holding that "all those persons weren't carried for fun."

Since organization of the police cab detail last July, 23 violators have been fined, out of 55 cases introduced in one court. Three of introduced in one court. Three of these got Workhouse sentences. Repeated offenders are numerous, screral wildcatters having been arrested more than 12 times in two or three years. Until recently, convictions have been few for these "repeaters," save on traffic violations. The greatest public danger from illegal cabs, the judges say, is that they carry no liability insurance or bond, and often operate cars in bad repair.

Where They Operate.

The wildcatters operate largely in an area bounded by Jefferson and Franklin avenues and Sarah and Market streets, where "stands" and Market streets, where "stands" are well known. A tavern or garage ordinarily provides telephone service. Drivers using their own cars pay a stand fee, while those renting cars pay a daily rate, usually $2.50 for 12 hours. Many drivers operate from their own homes. Formerly garage owners, or other individly garage owners, or other individals, rented out several cars to un-change in the taxicab ordinance makes the owner of such a car equally liable with the driver.

Burns expressed the opinion the lack of a Negro drivers' union was in part responsible for wildcatters, asserting the close union supervision among white cab drivers has sion among white cab drivers has prevented such illegal operations.

COURT ISSUE: IS ADOPTED SON 'DESCENDANT' UNDER WILL?

Federal Suit Filed to Determine Recipient of $40,000 of Stribling Estate. Suit was filed in United States

District Court yesterday on the basis of diversity of citizenship to letermine whether an adopted son is entitled to share in an estate of his foster-father, as a "descend-ant," within meaning of the term as used in a will.

Plaintiff in the suit is Miss Mildred Stribling, whose residence is given as Massachusetts, and who names as defendants Thomas A. Westhoff and the Mercantile Bank & Trust Co., trustee of the estate of her father, William Clarkson Stribling, St. Louis wholesale shoe dealer, who died in 1929. The part of the estate involved in the suit is valued at $40,000.

Stribling's will left half of his estate to his widow and the other half in equal shares to Miss Strib-ling and a son, William C. Stribling Jr., insurance broker here, with the provision that if the son died without a "descendant" his share of the estate should go to Miss Stribling.

Stribling Jr., who died last July, had adopted Westhoff, the brother of his second wife, who divorced him after an order naming her his guardian was set aside. Claims for the share of the estate held by the younger Stribling have been filed in behalf of Westhoff and Miss

"SHEER DISHPAN MAGIC"—SAY WOMEN Of This Amazing Soap That Melts Grease.

Now comes a revolutionary new soap to end the dishpan slavery every woman detests and dreads. A soap that melts grease with such miraculous speed that dishes "fairly wash themselves." Yet so easy on hands that thousands use nothing else for washing dishes 3 times a day. Developed by Procter & Gamble at a cost of over $1,000,000, OxydoL is the result of a remarkable formula that makes mild, gentle soap 2 to 3 times more efficient. Melts grease 25% faster than less modern soaps. That is why so many women say it often cuts their dishwashing time in half. One

So Fast, Dishes Almost Wash Themselves quick wipe and dishes gleam—glassware sparkles like jewels! Yet you never need fear the rough, red hands caused by ordinary harsh soaps.

OXYDOL is particularly economical for dishwashing. Tests against popular package soaps show that, cup for cup, Oxydol gives 28% to 60% MORE SUDS! And one package often goes 1/3 to 1/2 again as far as even the most modern flakes! So try OxydoL for dishwashing. You'll be amazed how much time and drudgery it saves—how soft it leaves your hands. Get a package today! Procter & Gamble. TESTED AND APPROVED BY GOOD HOUSEKEEPING INSTITUTE

"Judging from results ... LIFE is a new way of communicating with the public."

J. B. Johans

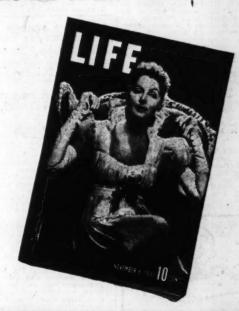

ADVERTISING DIRECTOR,
THE WOHL SHOE COMPANY

As remarkable as everything else about LIFE's remarkable first year has been the unpredictable and great new selling force LIFE unleashed in advertising.

No million-and-a-half circulation (November) could account for the way LIFE has taken root in the mind of the nation. But nine people share each copy, they argue about it and take sides, they borrow it and pass it along. Over thirteen million people share LIFE each week. And that does account for the selling force that is felt in every town, village, and city the country over.

Since sweeping public opinion is hard to put on the witness stand, LIFE here offers one specific example of an advertiser—The Wohl Shoe Company—who has felt the impact of the LIFE force in action. Felt it through direct inquiries, felt it through salesmen's reactions, through dealers—felt it in sales—in stores from coast to coast.

So U. S. business is discovering what the U. S. public has already discovered—the LIFE force; the impact of pictures which inform, pictures which report the news of the week and the life of the world.

The Magnificent Christmas Esquire-Out Today

Wary as we are of superlatives, the December issue of Esquire is no usual Christmas issue of a magazine. The December Esquire - on sale today - is by way of establishing a new American tradition, not unlike those enjoyed by the Noël number of L'Illustration in France or, in England, the "Holly Leaves" edition of the London Illustrated News, It is a veritable art object, no less. And this, so help us, is under-

Esquire, this Christmas, is a gift in itself to yourself. Not only do you receive a magazine that is a limited edition in fact and content. Along with its superb reproductions of etchings, paintings and prints and all the regular features that render it, in truth, a collector's item-there is a galaxy of advertisers that reads like a social register for gift giving.

If you are concerned about what's new to give, what's smart to give and why-here are all your answers in a "first aid kit", pre-sifted and all organized for you in advance.

Here's one sure way of knowing your way around-and beforehand. It's the Christmas issue of Esquire-on sale at your favorite newsstand today. Why take any chances?

Last year, a large Christmas printing of Esquire melted from the newsstands, almost before you could say "George Petty". They were completely sold out in less than one week. How long will this year's supply last? Your guess is as good as ours.

POSSIBLY THE MOST SENSATIONAL BOOK PRODUCED BY THE WORLD WAR

By Brig-Gen. Frank P. Crozier C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O.

ENERAL CROZIER, who shocked British officialdom and military leaders with his preliminary book on the World War as he saw it, entitled, "A Brass Hat in No Man's Land," has laid bare the whole grim truth about modern war in his last book, "The Men I Killed."

A professional soldier all his adult life, General Crozier fought on many fronts. He knew war, from a long and varied experience that included skirmishes in India, the Boer War in South Africa, the World War and later the allied war on the Russian

In "The Men I Killed," General Crozier writes of aspects of war that generally are unpublished and untalked about. Bluntly, he states that to "hold the line" and win battles officers must on occasions shoot their own men to prevent panic and disaster; that many regiments with reputations for exceptional courage are those whose rank and file realize that they will be shot by their leaders if they run. He describes cases in which he turned his revolver on men of his own outfit when he deemed it neces-

General Crozier, who had made good use of hunting rifles with telescopic sights to put wounded natives out of misery in England's little wars and to kill distant German snipers in France, became an avowed pacifist before his death. Convinced of the utter folly of war as an instrument for settlement of international disputes, he believed that the future peace of the world would depend on men who "can fight and don't." His last book is a persuasive argument for that belief.

Readers interested in a vigorous, authoritative picture of the realities of war will find it in "The Men . I Killed."

Author's Note

Years ago, when I was young, I used to spend many hours in the company of sailors and soldiers, trying to make them tell me stories of their exploits. I was very young!

There was one warrior in particular, a naval commander who had recently served in the Egyptian War and had been present at the taking of a stockade in Africa. Stockades appealed to me; in Burma, my father and uncle had done a bit of jungle fighting, and were wont to talk of stock-ades when the port was going round, while I would listen with mouth open and eyes agog. But through all the talk I was puzzled. ... Despite the fighting, nobody ever seemed to be killed on either side.

And so I thought; and one day I asked my naval friend: "Have you ever killed anybody with your sword?" He looked at me and replied in a whisper: "Hush! my boy, we don't talk about that sort of thing." I thought that was queer.

"Are you ashamed?" I asked the Com-mander later. "Are you ashamed of what you do in wars—when you kill men? I don't understand it. If it IS all right, why don't you want to talk about it?" He was very tactful, for I was very young. "You'll understand—when you grow up," he said. And so the matter was dropped. Until something happened.

One day when I was storm-bound with the Commander on the West Coast of Scotland in a yacht, I went down into the aloon and saw him thrusting at the figure of a man enveloped in a jungle suit of white (a flowing dressing gown), with a towel twisted round his head like a turban.

"Abdul Bim, I've got you!" shouted the Commander, as he lunged forward, cheering, with a poker. "You're dead! Dead as door nail. The victory's mine, the stock-de is taken . . . "Then the Commander ade is taken . . helped himself to another drink.

Next morning I chanced a remark about

"Tell me more about Abdul Bim," I asked, standing in front of the Command-er, who towered above me as he looked at through the deck above. He looked very shocked as he leaned towards me. "What do you know about Abdul Bim?" he de-manded. "What do you know?"

"Not much," I told him. "Except that you killed him. You put your sword through him. . ." He cut me short. "Shush!" he interjected. "You mustn't say that. We in the Service—but how did you know? We never talk of those things. Who told you?" he invited.

"Promise me this: Never tell a single soul I killed Abdul Bim. It—it simply isn't done," he added.

I promised....
Ten years passed. On a very hot Sunday I walked into a well-known club in St. James's Square and called for an iced gin and ginger beer. The times were hectic. King Edward VII had just been crowned; the Boer War had just been won—and I had become a soldier. In a corner of the club I saw my old naval friend. We talked and drank together. "You're quite a man now," he exclaimed. "You're quite a man now," he exclaimed.
"How time flies!"

I nodded and smiled. "Do you remem-ber the death of old Abdul Bim?" I asked

He sat up. "Shush! What did I tell you?" he reminded me. But I was not so very young now. "That's all bosh," I said. "I don't believe in that sort of thing. Why be ashamed of what you do, even though you may have done wrong or made a mistake? But you made no mistake when you killed Bim you made no mistake when you killed Bim and took the stockade. You can't have war without killing or being killed. So why the mystery? . . . And there's another thing: I've just been through three wars in three years and in the big one (South Africa). The most awful lies are being told to make people believe all sorts of things. What's the good of it?"

His reply came slowly. He was very grave. "Look here, my boy; you're in the Service now. You have to remember that if you want to get on you must be propulation.

if you want to get on you must be popular—but you will not be popular if you give away the show and criticize seniors. Draw a veil over the black side of war. Instead, draw on the vast amount of virtue, valour, and courage which comes out in every campaign . . . and forget about Abdul Bim.

The years creep on, and with them comes change—but not in one respect!

Gen. Johnson's Suppressed Radio Talk

Commentator's speech, barred by broadcasting company, assailed conspiracy of silence on venereal diseases; syphilis and gonorrhea "do more to fill hospitals, jails and asylums than any other public enemies"; first step in overcoming them must be conquest of "ignorance and suicidal prudery"; medical tests urged for all persons.

From the Manuscript of Gen. Hugh S. Johnson's Undelivered Radio Address.

HIS is a talk about public enemies Nos. 1 and 2. They do as much harm as all our criminals combined. They are particularly vicious because their favorite arms. But they are no respecters of per-They attack the strong as well as the weak and, in many cases, ruin both fe. They corrupt and the lives of youth of both sexes. They send men. ations to repair the effects of their merciless and surreptitious assaults. They cripple both young and old by the thousands every year-mentally and physically. They are the servants and familiars of vice and debauchery.

They have been permitted so widely to ravage as they will in this country for two reasons: first, they are the most stealthy and deceptive of human enemies. They sometimes approach in the most appealing and unsuspected guise and in the most sacred relationships. They are the arrow that flyeth by day and the pestilence that stalketh at night.

The second reason is that, until very recently, there was a conspiracy among our human society to conceal and protect not only them but all their deadly methods and, above all, the widespread evidence of their terrible crimes. Until recently, I would not have been permitted to accuse them by name on the radio or in my newspaper column, except perhaps some remote references under some of their obscure aliases which would mean little or nothing to nine listeners out of 10. Fortunately, that is all changed now.

Polls of public opinion about this ostrich-like complacency have condemned it overwhelmingly by expressions by people of all classes. The most meticulous of writers, newspapers, journals and the radio have agreed to drag these reptiles from their oles into the light of day and end their hideous power to harm humanity. That can be done. It has been largely done among some classes and in some countries to prove that it can be done. But the way of doing it also proved that it can't even be attempted until these enemies of mankind are exposed, photographed, fingerprinted and advertised, so that every one of their possible victims can recognize them at a glance. It can't be done unless the country abandons completely its hush-hush attitude about them and their works, discovers them, wherever they are, and moves against them in an organized campaign on every front.

Of course, public enemies Nos. 1 and 2 are the two social or venereal diseases called syphilis and gonorrhea. We didn't like to talk about them because they are frequently conveyed in the sex relationship-though by no means exclusively. Syphilis can be otherwise conveyed. Especially in its destructive effects in mind and body, it is often hereditary-sins or misfortunes of parents visited on their innocent children.

Gonorrhea is not hereditary in that sense, but it is the most frequent cause of blindness in new-born babies after infection of their eyes at birth by wholly innocent mothby other contacts in the terrible eye disease known as gonorrhea ophthalmia.

Both diseases are very frequently transmitted to innocent spouses by their mates, who are also sometimes innocent, at least to the extent of not knowing that they are

The ignorant idea that the presence of these scourges necessarily convicted the sufferer of something disgraceful has been largely responsible for their spread and most of the damage they have done. Happily, that day seems to be nearly ended. but it will never be completely ended as long as a vestige of that suicidal nonsense of silence remains.

The germ of syphilis may be transmitted by contact as slight as a kiss by an infected person, through some tiny scratch or abrasion giving access to the victim's blood. In its early stages, the disease is easily, quickly and almost certainly cured, but only if it is taken to a reputable physician and promptly treated. It is in the stages beyond this when it becomes one of the greatest plagues of the human race. If not promptly eradicated, it begins to destroy the tissues of nerves or brain or bone or body-and once destroyed, they never can be restored. This is what causes insanity of a particularly dangerous and nurderous sort. Here it becomes a cause of the most vicious crimes. It sometimes eats the flesh, like leprosy, and destroys the nerves, causing terrible affections of lameness and paralysis.

When the disease is transmitted to children and children's children, it brings them into the world blind or insane or idiots or monsters or horribly disfigured or lacking in one or more bodily members or functions.

How does it ever get so far? Sometimes because it is not recognized, sometimes because the sufferer has been treated and was either told he was cured, or because treatment almost instantly destroys the annoying or painful symptoms and the victim thinks he is smarter than the doctor and stops treatment while the disease is only dormant. It quietly recurs to destroy him or infect others, or impair his children before he realizes what has happened.

Gonorrhea is caused by a quicker-acting germ which is passed also by contact and wherever it can reach exposed mucous membrane. The eyes are especially sensitive and very hard to treat to prevent quick blindness. It can be cured promptly if treated immediately and by a reputable doctor-avoiding quacks as the evil one him-

If not treated at once by the best methods, it may spread along bodily tracts to cause the most serious of complications in vital organs, especially among women, where it is the cause of a very large proportion major operations of a painful, expensive sometimes destructive sort.

If neglected, it can cause alm able suffering, sterility, a sometime heart affliction and an almost i and crippling joint disease. The most de gerous thing about this infection is it idiotic idea, especially among young that it is of trifling importance and the consequent neglect of treatment, while the themselves become carriers and wholest acters of both sexes. These diseases can be avoided or rented only by a complete under of them-an understanding which is almo totally absent, especially where this ger is greatest-among young men and

The hopeful part about them is that bet can be discovered by competent mexamination, and if discovered can be certainly cured. The aspect of them the should challenge the attention of every so citizen is that, because of the cloak of lence and ignorance under which they ha are going about the country in inn or ignorance, carriers and spreaders to as with whom they may come in contact.

The way to stamp these secret pes ut completely is to discover their pr wherever they may be—and they may anywhere, among the highest or the the richest or the poorest, the most dissolute or the most chaste. The only wa such walking centers of infection can l found out and made harmless is by a raise simple medical examination of all person —no matter how certain they may feel that hey are not a menace.

It is arranged with absolute private Provisions are being made for inexpe ompletely confidential and effective tres ment by competent doctors wherever xamination discloses a disease.

These two curses of humanity can nore easily conquered than any of the other plagues that have been overcome medical science if only ignorance and suicidal prudery can be conquered first the present drive succeeded completely these plagues would be reduced to a scal fraction of their menace. That has actually been done in this way in Sweden with syphilis-cutting down the rate of infec to four per 10,000 as compared with $11 per 10,000 in the United States—one-half of 1 per cent as many cases as have practical eradication.

Since the days when the industry failed to clean its own house and thus provoked public hostility and punitive legislation, it has had no better opportunity than it has now to end the political war between the Government and itself.

The President's terms of peace have to do with the method of cal-culating the rates which private utilities are allowed to charge. It will be useful, I think, to remind ourselves of the elementary principles involved.

A utility is a monopoly which sells something that people have to buy. It is called a monopoly be-cause Mr. Gabriel Angel, living on Paradise boulevard, can obtain elec tricity from only one company. He cannot shop around, as he can when he is buying an automo pair of shoes, for the goods that suit him best at the price he is willing to pay. He must buy electricity from one company. And he must buy electricity. For he cannot really light his home with kerosene ly light his home with lamps and candles.

Thus, there is for him only one seller of electricity, and just this is what is meant by a perfect monopoly. The company, if it were free to act as it liked, would have him at its mercy. It could charge whatever it thought Gabriel Angel could be made to pay. It could even turn off his electricity if it wanted to. And so, because he has no protection from competition in the open market, because the company is a monopolist unrestrained by competition, Gabriel's end of the bargain has to be protected by law. That is the reason utilities, as political distinguished from automobile comvery to panies or grocery stores, are regulated by law. The Government intervenes because ordinary commer

So far, everyone is in agreement. But for more than 40 years, perhaps I should say for about 70 years, there has been an unending dispute about the method by which the Government regulating commissions should determine the price or, as we say, the rate—to be charged by railroad, street car, ferry, gas, electric, water, pipeline dispute has generated enough argument on soap boxes, in legislapatient man who ever lived. It has mployed an army of lawyers and provided the means to a career for thousands of politicians.

And yet nothing is settled. And met wi even when something seems to be settled because the Supreme Court has spoken solemnly, it does not stay settled, and very soon there is another political agitation and whole series of lawsuits.

The crux of the dispute has al-ways been how to calculate the rate. The conventions of private property require that the investor who owns property shall be allowed if he can find the customers, to earn the current rate of interest Canon plus a profit to induce him to invest and to make up for the risk. If this profit were denied to him, he would buy Government bonds or even store his money in a safe deposit box.

Now, in ordinary business, the price which can be charged is fixed by competing bids and offers in an open market. For the utilities, there is no open market, and, therefore, an artificial substitute for the market has had to be invented. This substitute consists in saying that the legal value of the utility property is x, that the proper rates of interest plus profit is y, and that therefore y times x gives at 11 a. the legal price which may be man charged.

The heart of the dispute, obvi- a. m. ously, is what the legal value of the property ought to be. On this St. Ger point, there are two great schools of thought, each with reputable and at 11 competent defenders.

The one school, which has had the sanction of the Supreme Court at St. for some 40 years, holds that the 3 p. m. legal value of utility property in day nig 1937 should be the cost of reproducing that property in 1937. The other school, of which the leading exponent has long been Mr. Justice Brandeis, holds that the lumbia. legal value of the property should be whatever the investor has actually invested in it prudently. By ing the term "prudent invest-ment," the intention is to write off later in money invested foolishly, as, for fore his example, when a company buys a Decem plant that cost $50,000 and is held tive of Senator Says Brazilian Pact With Fascists Would Hurt Good Will.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.-Senator Thomas (Dem.), Utah, member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said today that any alignment of Brazil with the socalled Fascist nations "might be destructive of the spirit of good will which underlies the present inter-American relations."

Commenting on the Brazilian dictatorship, Thomas said: "We don't know enough to make deductions, but as far as the present activity is concerned, it seems, viewed at long range, very similar to other changes that have taken place in South American states.

"The world is worried about an alliance between those states called Fascist-Germany, Italy and Japan. The alliance scheme has always resulted insuspicion and counter-alliances and secret diplomacy, so that any movement of that kind is not good for the world."

Vargas' Action Forecast in Opposing Candidate's Manifes

By the Associated Press.
BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 12.—Arnando Salles Oliveira, who was a candidate for President of Brazil before the new constitution was romulgated, predicted, and urged the Army and Navy to prevent, President Getulio Vargas' action establishing a dictatorship, it was dis-closed today by an airline passenger from Brazil.

The passenger exhibited a manifesto issued Nov. 8 by Salles Oliveira, who was to have opposed Vargas in the January elections. "If some powerful force doesn't intervene in time, a blow suddenly will strike the nation from its foundation," the manifesto said. It was read in the Brazilian Chamber on the night of Nov. 9, by Joan Carlos Machado, opposition floor leader. The Brazilian army forbade its publication. Machado was reported arrested, as was also Salles Oliveira.

Denying that Brazilian democracy was decadent, the candidate's statement declared "it is ready to give indisputable proof of its vitality," and that the preponderance

"FINEST for COLDS!"

Says Lafayette Man who Tells His Friends of Real Relief

This is what a resident of Lafayette, Indiana, has to say: "I am fortyfive years of age and this is the first time I ever bothered to write anyone telling them of the benefits I received from their medicine. I am happy to know that I have found a medicine that really gives relief from colds. I can name five persons to whom I've recommended Pine Balm for breaking up colds, and they all say it is the best and cheapest cold medicine they ever had. I'll always keep Pine Balm handy."

PINE BALM contains not one, but eleven highly vaporizing ingredients, so naturally it acts quicker to relieve colds. Just rub on PINE BALM—breathing is eased, air passages cleared, and congestion loosened—because the pleasant piney vapors penetrate through the entire colds area, bringing wonderful relief!

My Uncle Paddy was one of them kind of fellas. He had been workin' in an office for years and years without gettin' an advance in salary and one day, he finally mustered up enough courage to go in and ask the boss for a raise. He walked in so quietly the boss didn't hear him and kept on going, going through some papers on his desk. that Alfred P. Sloan Jr., wore a scarf pin in his tie. I thought they were old fashioned. Are they coming back in style? I hope not.)

Mr. Sloan gets a tremendous salary, naturally, yet the chances are that 99 per cent of the people who work for General Motors ate more breakfast this morning than he did. He had a cup of ing than he did. He had a cup of black coffee and a glass of orange juice which he drank hurriedly.

That reminds me of the experience of a friend of mine. A Vermont farm boy. He visited a cousin in Boston one day; and the two of them lunched in one of Boston's famous eating places. The city chap, eager to impress his rustic relative, said: "In a few minutes, you will see Mr. Blank walk in and sit down at that table over there."

A LL agog, the country boy waited for the famous man to arrive —a multimillionaire merchant whose name was a household word throughout New England. Presently the great man walked in and ly the great man walked in and lunched on—what do you suppose? A glass of milk and a baked apple. Just that. Nothing more. The boy from the farm was amazed. A baked apple and a glass of milk! Poor as he was, he could eat that on the farm every day. He had probably expected a millionaire to lunch on something like caviar, terrapin, canvas back duck, shad roe, strawberries in January, imported cheese and French wine.

The late Doctor Charles Eliot, president of Harvard University, for almost a quarter of a century, said on one occasion that the pleassaid on one occasion that the pleasure of eating was one of the abiding and enduring satisfactions of life. And the funny part of the story is this: the man who chops wood or pitches hay gets a lot more pleasure out of his boiled ham and cabbage than the city worker gets out of his filet mignon and asparagus tips with drawn butter. I gus tips with drawn butter. I know. I have pitched hay and chopped wood on a Missouri farm; and I have lived in New York for a quarter of a century and dined at the Algonquin, Waldorf, the Plaza, the Commodore and Dinty Moore's. And, I would gladly trade all the caviar in Christendom for a mess of spare ribs and sauer-kraut, piping hot after a day dig-ging post-holes on the farm.

Praise a Child For Things You

By Angelo Patri

D o YOU want to keep alive some trait of character in a child? Talk about it. Every time the child practices the act you want to strengthen, speak about it. And keep praising the virtue you want him to acquire. Keep insisting in season and out that he has it, that he uses it well, and that you are highly pleased about it. That is the best possible way to have him take over the quality and knit it Q83 into his very soul.

And the same thing stands for the quality that you would have him discard. Keep talking to him about it; keep telling him how dreadful it is that he is that way, and as sure as you live, he will be that way. There is nothing as powerful as the spoken word. It can become the greatest power for good or the greatest power for evil as you use it.

Speech is a positive force. It is never negative. It does things to those who use it and to those upon whom it is used. You cannot say things and expect that nothing will happen. Something does happen in the mind of the listener. Either he gets a good impulse by hearing what you say, or he gets a wrong one way or the other.

I met a college graduate about a year ago, who is now going away to a professional school. He is 20. Within the year I have dated him fairly much, but, of course, I have dated many others. I know that he has not dated another girl and I believe I am in love with him. He has never declared himself to me, but I feel that he cares for me. Should I tell him in any way how much I care for him before he leaves? He is going very soon. Please tell me what I should do?

VERY UNHAPPY.

Doubtless you have already told him in every way but words; and let me suggest to you that you care-fully withhold a definite declaration. There are many subtle wiles woman employs, too sophisticated and, I might say, unworthy of a young girl if she does not choose them carefully, to show her preferences; but they are not in words. This is a man's prerogative. And he is jealous of this right.

It is likely that the young mar It is likely that the young man has seen your affection growing and like many sensible boys and men, feels that it is not now the time for any definite agreement between you; for so often, a girl, before the time is ripe, allows the word "marriage" to obsess her. Keep the kindly and even tender affection guarded from over expression. Show him in what ways you can, with some reserve, that you care for him, but do not precipitate the matter and drive him away from you.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

RealLy, I had no idea what a task I had sent you—asking to find a home for "Jeannie" the cat! Dr. G., whom you sent, got her and I was so impressed with his enthusiasm, that I bundled up a year-old male and handed to him. I heard from him this morning and he told me how delighted everyone was to have them both.

I am going to send each writer a card, as I may have some kittens to dispose of in the spring. I thought some of the letters rather sweet, especially the one from the elderly lady in Illinois who called you "Sister Carr." No words can tell you how I appreciate your kindness. I am employed as a physician's assistant and I see so much that is unpleasant in the day's work that I can truly appreciate such an attitude as a man an attitude as a man an attitude as a man an artifician's assistant and I see so much that I can truly appreciate such an attitude as a man an an attitude as a man an an an an artifician's assistant and I see so much that I can truly appreciate such an action of the care of the ca that I can truly appreciate such an attitude as yours. Breast Cancer In Women and Its Prevention

Annual Physical Examination Is Best Safeguard, Doctor Asserts.

Logan Clendening, M. D.

HE prevention of breast cancer in women very largely comes down to an annual physical examination in those women who are just over the child-bearing periodapproximately the age of 40.

It has been shown that the greatest risk a woman runs, if a small lump in her breast proves to be cancer, is about 25 per cent, pro-vided she is one of those who has the lump examined promptly or has it discovered in an annual phy-sical examination. The ignorant woman who delays largely because of her ignorance, not fear, has a very much smaller chance of cure. Probably the most widespread idea about prevention of cancer concerns the belief that women have that an injury of the breast will result in cancer. There is not really very much evidence for this and nearly all women are subjected to bumps in elevators or street cars. I imagine there is some truth in the idea that after a woman has one of these bumps on her breast, she may examine it and find that there is a lump present, and that this accounts for the idea that the injuries cause cancer. The fact is that the lump was there before, but was not noticed. It may be a good thing for any woman to have cause to make a careful examination. Remember that in the early stages cancer of the breast is very seldom painful and does not call attention to itself in that way.

It must be remembered that very few lumps or masses in the breast play, so they have come to know the employes by first names.

"The first time I came, on a Sunday," remarks a jovial, fatherly sort of fat man, "I won $100, and so per cent of these no operation.

But sort of fat man, "I won $100, and I've been coming ever since. But I have never won again."

Another block of the second or X-ray or radium irradiation will be necessary.

In all suspected cancers, as we stated in an earlier article, the best procedure is to take a small piece out and look at it under the microscope. This is called "a biopsy." There has been some fear expressed in the past that this procedure will irritate the tissues enough to proirritate the tissues enough to pro-duce a cancer, but these fears have very largely been allayed. Cancer of the womb can also be prevented or recognized in a very early stage at an annual physical examination. It is the almost unan-imous opinion of 900 obstetricians, railes for 36 each with a final raile for $50," comes from the loud speaker. "Everybody change cards."

The last are unnecessary instructions, for players usually anticipate them, since cards are changed by being passed to the player on the right at the start of each block of games.

Examination. It is the almost unanimous opinion of 900 obstetricians, fellows of the American College of Surgeons, that mothers' best protection against cancer of the cervix depends on the repairs of all injuries or irritations following the birth of a child, and periodic examinations afterward.

Another danger sign of this form

Several players win undivided $5 games, but the $50 are divided. So are two $5 "raffles" and the final $100 of the next block."

Another danger sign of this form of cancer is irregular bleeding, and especially at the time of the change of life it is likely that these symptoms will be disregarded. To dismiss such signals by saying, "Oh, it's just the change of life." LONGER intermission follows, "Oh, it's just the change of life," for play is over.

Terry Trevor, 22 granddaughter of Judge Martin Trevor, has one suitor, Hugh Jackson, assistant general manager of the Burton Silk Mills Pondering whether or not to marry Hugh, Terry is speeding one night in her roadster when she hits and severely injures a penniless young mill worker, Jim Yorke. He is taken to a hospital, and she is brought into court before her grandlather. Judge Trevor at once reminds Terry of her grave obligation to Jim. Decreeing that she must pay all his doctor and hospital bills, he cuts off her allowance—and suggests that she immediately find a job. Terry fearfully calls the hospital to inquire about Jim. He cannot be seen for several days. Then Dr. Webster, friend of the Trevor family, tells Terry of the possible enormity of the accruing bills. He warns against her working at the Burton Silk Mills, where indications of recent sabotage would surround her with danger. She nevertheless obtains, through Hugh, a position in the mill offices. Janice Beech, Terry's co-worker, discusses freely the horrible mishaps occurring at the mills. Myrtle Phillips is Hugh's private secretary, who, it's soon develops, harbors a secret hatred for Terry. In a few days Terry visits Jim, finding him to be dark, handsome, gruffly hitter over his confinement. She mails a letter for him, addressed to a mysterious "Marion". The first week she pays his bills by selling her roadster. Then feeling sympathetic for the still disdainful patient, she offers Jim a room in her grandparent's home. When he accepts, she is in love with Jim, not Hugh. "Marion" visits the house, asking for him. Terry stilles a queer emotion when, watching the two fins, past and makes an astounding discovery. On Myrtle Phillips' face was a slight flush that made her decidedly handsome, a flush that was deeper than the touch of rouge on her cheeks. Her eyes were brighter, her voice warmer, Benjamin Huxley's eyes were

"He was just going into the of-fice, and Mr. Huxley was with him." Her eyes were large with excitement, and her voice lowered

"He doesn't come here much, you know. Only once in a great while. Last time he was here was two months ago. A big man, as big as Mr. Jackson. Older, of course. Now what's he here for, do you think?"

Terry shook her head. She had no idea why the great Donald Bur-ton was here, why he should come to visit one of his mills, and she had no idea why his mere presence in the mill would make such a decided change in everybody.

Donald Burton, the great Donald Burton, could make no difference to her. He didn't know she existed, and if he found out he probably wouldn't be interested. She and all the other men and women in his Fulton City mill were not even names to him.

He had other mills larger than the Fulton City mill, other mills that wove more cloth, hired more men and more women, made more money for him. There was the Elizabeth (N. J.) plant — Terry winced when she thought of it —there was the Allison (N. J.) plant form standing rim. Flute with fingers. Combine all ingredients in the Camden (N. J.) plant and the Providence (R. the idea at first, Mr. Burton. I fought against it. I never wanted Andrew R. E. Wyant, now a doctor in Chicago, established what is undoubtedly the greatest football playing record ever made. He was with Bucknell from 1888 to 1891, playing guard and tackle, then went to the University of Chicago as center from 1892 to 1894. There was no three-year rule then, thus making it possible for Wyant to play seven consecutive years of college football. He played 98 games and never missed a minute of play. Wyant was 6 feet 21/2 inches tall, and weighed 175 pouchs in his prime. to see this Jim Yorke again, but Jackson and Whelan have finally got me around to their way of

All over the country, people are honoring the pear-one of the most ancient and delightful

Now in their prime are the golden-russet BOSC PEARS

Favorites of the royal families of France and grown in the gardens of celebrated Chateaux. Now they are produced in such superior quality in the famous orchard districts of Oregon, Washington and California, that large quantities are exported to the land of their origin.

MANY DELIGHTFUL WAYS OF SERVING

Eat them as dessert fruit or serve them in salads, baked or in pies. Right now they are at the peak of their goodness. Lay in a supply for Thanksgiving—use them for decorations and for the dessert that leaves no regrets.

Ask your grocer or fruit dealer for Oregon-Washington-California pears. Look for this "Seal of Quality" on the box label or on the tissue wrapper that protects the pears.

DR. V. K. KOO HAD URGED BOYCOTT

U. S., Britain and France Draft Statement Citing Illegality of Tokio's Invasion and Defiance of the World.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 13.-China's demand for what would amount to anctions against Japan was op-posed by Italy today in the Brussels conference seeking mediation in the Chinese-Japanese war, and the conference adjourned until Monday to permit the Italian rep-resentative to refer the matter to his government.

The Chinese delegate, Dr. V. K.
Wellington Koo, urged a conference decision to withhold war materials and credits from Japan and supply them to China.

them to China.

This evoked immediate objection from Count Luigi Aldovrandi-Marescotti, delegate of Italy, against which the League of Nations decreed sanctions because of her invasion of Ethiopia and which has been Japan's friend at Brusseis.

"That is entirely ruled out," said the Italian. "We are not here for that. It is entirely outside the scope of the conference."

Nevertheless the United States,

Nevertheless the United Str British and French delegations sented the conference with the d of a joint declaration stressing of a joint declaration accessing the illegality of Japan's military action in China and asserting it amounted to defiance of the whole world. "Compelling Reasons." Previously the conference had heard Norman H. Davis, head of the American delegation, declare there were "compelling reasons" why Japan should co-operate in why Japan should co-operate in the search for peace.

The Italian delegate pointedly put the question what the conference would do next. As if in reply the three-Power declaration was distributed to the delegates, who reassembled late today to consider

Dr. Koo, referring to Japan's re discuss peace possibilities, urged the delegates to act "now that the door to conciliation and mediation Soon after the afternoon session began the Italian delegate said he needed time to study the three-Power declaration.

In any case, he said, he believed his Government would not be able to accept it in whole or in part. Concept is Different. The declaration observed with re-
